What is fire rating? What is active and passive fire protection? What is the criteria used to determine the different levels/durations for obtaining fire ratings such as 20-minute, 45-minute and 90-minute? What is the difference between safety/non safety and hose stream ratings? What are the most current fire rated glazing products available today? What new glazing products are being developed for fire rated glass such as frame technology, composites and gels? What are the possible changes to codes in the future? How can glazing contractors avoid problems with projects and specifications?
